ARMY ORDERS.—Second Lieut. Chas. H. Ingalls, 6th infantry, has been granted six months leave of absence. First Lieut. Mason M. Maxon, has been ordered to report to the Superintendent of the Mounted Recruiting service for temporary duty. Captain James Mercer, of the Engineer corps has been ordered, in addition to his other duties, to act as a member of the board advisory to the State harbor commissioners of Norfolk and Portsmouth, Virginia.

No Exception Made.—A paragraph has appeared in several of the papers that the Secretary of the Navy had made an exception to his regulation circular which forbids women residing on public vessels in behalf of Capt. The regulation applies to vessels in commission for sea service, and, as the Minnesota does not come within that class, she is exempt, as other receiving ships are, from the operation of the regulation.

Dr. Bliss Hopeful and Cheerful. Br. Hilss Hopeful and Cheerful.

Sunday was indeed a quiet day at the White House, with very few callers outside of the Cabinet officers. The President's symptoms continued favorable, and his physicians and friends are more encouraged than ever. Dr. Bliss last evening informed the Cabinet that his hope of the patient's recovery was firmly grounded. He did not think the present progress could continue unmarred by some slight relapse, but the physicians were prepared for every but the physicians were prepared for every possible emergency, and they feel they now have the case under control. Unforeseen accidents may occur, but there are now no unfavorable symptoms.

The Danger Period.

In an interesting interview published in the Baltimore Sun this morning, Dr. Bliss was asked whether the danger period had passed, and he replied:

"Oh, no; it will not pass, I think, for a week. Yesterday we were somewhat disturbed by the increase in temperature, as we did not know what change there might be in the internal conditions to cause it; but the temperature was soon reduced, and but the temperature was soon reduced, and by very simple means. To-day it is much better. He is, of course, very weak. If you could see that strong man in his present condition you would realize how severe his hurt is. He is doing better continuously very much better than we could have dared

Diagnosis of the Case.

The fact was referred to that other physicians had expressed the opinion that the diagnosis was all wrong, and he expressed surprise that physicians should be willing to put themselves in such a position. He added: "We have been taking careful notes of the case every half hour for the benefit of the case every man non-rotate beneat of the President, for the sake of science and for ourselves. These notes will constitute the record, and the result will show that the original diagnosis was perfectly correct.

The Location of the Ball.

The Location of the Ball.

"There are besides certain indications, strong indications, which we have communicated to the consulting physicians in writing, and not by telegraph, and which, for prudential reasons, we have not given to the public, that make it pretty certain that we will be able to locate the ball, and which make it probable that we ultimately can remove it without danger."

"What are these indications?"

The medical peared at Police Headquarters to-day and inquired for directions as to how she could find the Attorney-General.

The woman, when questioned, said that she had been swindled by lawyers out of all her property in Bay City, Mich., and that she had come on here to see the Attorney-General, and compel him to have it response to the body. We have felt and developed the course of the ball so far. Where it went then we do not definitely know, but from the direction of the three inches of the Jüdge Advocate-General Swaim, who is the course of the ball so far. Where it went then we do not definitely know, but from the direction of the three inches of the course which has been ascertained it is certain that it must have entered the liver and probably it passed entirely through the abdominal cavity, and is lodged in the anterior wall of the abdomen. That is where I think it is now—in the anterior wall of the abdomen, and not in the abdominal cavity at all. The ball entering the body where it did and passing inward three inches, must of necessity pass through a portion of the liver. At that point in the body the liver ilies close alongside of the ribs, and the ball could not penetrate the body at that point and enter so great a distance without striking the liver. The liver is there and must have been hit. Even if the ball dropped downward afterward it must have grazed the liver in its downward course. But, as I said, the indications of which we have privately advised Drs. Agnew and Hamilton the latter are that the hall dropped downward afterward it must have grazed the liver in its downward course. But, as I said, the indications of which we have privately advised Des Agene and Hamilton by letter are that the hall went through the liver to the abdominal eavity, and it will be easy when the time comes to remove it from that pells as at first supposed, and it will be easy when the time comes to remove it from that pells without danger. I do not think it will be necessary to enter the abdominal cavity and it were the sentitude of the wound, it for the wound. In response to questions about the treatment of the wound, the dector said: "We shall keep the wound open at present. There is a wall formed by nature around the entire track of the ball.
